Chaaya Wild

Luxury living in harmony with wildlife is the concept behind Chaaya Wild, a deluxe resort hotel in the buffer zone of Yala National Park. The hotel blends subtly into scrub forest in a scenic location, stretching from a lagoon to the border of Kirinda beach, which boasts some of Sri Lanka's finest unspoilt sand dunes. Animals may wander through the village unhindered as the management pursues a policy of co-existing with nature.

Facilities

A sprawling swimming pool. TV room, billiards table and board games. The Chaaya Wild offers jungle trekking, bird watching and beach hiking on incredible sand dunes on one of Sri Lanka's most beautiful and unspoilt beaches. Observation deck for bird's eye view of surroundings. The hotel arranges 2 hour night safaris through the buffer zone of the park to provide an insight to nocturnal wildlife.

Only minutes away is the entrance to Yala National Park, Sri Lanka's best wildlife reserve, which is arguably the best place in the world to observe leopards during daylight hours. About 1.5 hours distant is Uda Walawe National Park which is the island's premier elephant sanctuary where herds in excess of 100 individuals are sometimes seen.

Those interested in culture and religion will be interested in the pilgrimage town of Kataragama which is sacred to Buddhists, Hindus and Muslim pilgrims who come to pray at separate shrines in close vicinity to each other. Blue Whales are often seen close to the shore from the vantage point the Kirinda Temple, an ancient and exquisitely located Buddhist stupa overlooking the sea.
